

for muskan.

Editor-in-chief Utkarsh Sinha

Midnight Thoughts	like pressed flowers between old pages
Unspoken Feelings	like unfinished conversations after midnight
Fading Polaroids	like a sunflower turning toward sunlight
Rainy Evenings	like rain tapping softly on windows
Quiet Longing	like poetry written in disappearing ink
Soft Cinema	like coffee stains on love letters
Velvet Silence	like cinema scenes remembered for years
Distant Melodies	like songs heard through one earphone
Winter Camellias	like black dresses beneath city lights
Tired Starlight	like stars reflected in tired eyes
Cigarette Dreams	like thoughts that arrive after 2 a.m.
Forgotten Pages	like bookmarks left inside unfinished novels
Lunar Memories	like moonlight falling across quiet rooms
Blurred Goodbyes	like blurry photographs that still hurt
Coffee Stains	like polaroids fading at the edges
Golden Haze	like flowers blooming despite winter
Small Moments	like tiny moments becoming memories
Silent Questions	like searching for meaning in silence
After Midnight	like cigarette smoke under streetlights
Almost Love	like loving someone from afar
Moonlit Eyes	like eyes memorizing someone quietly

EPILOGUE

And somewhere between silence and goodbye,
I loved her.

Bound together by memories, longing, and beautiful misunderstandings.

happy birthday, muskan